

Empathy, Community, and the State

The Social Philosophy of Edith Stein

University College Dublin, School of Philosophy,
Newman House, 86 St Stephen's Green, Dublin 2, December 16, 2013

- 09.30–09.45 Opening Words
- 09.45–10.30 Mette Lebeck (NUI Maynooth): The Constitution of Human Dignity According to the Phenomenology of Edith Stein
- 10.30–11.15 Íngrid Vendrell Ferran (University of Marburg): Emotions and the Understanding of Intersubjectivity in Edith Stein's Early Work
- 11.15–11.30 Coffee Break
- 11.30–12.15 James Jardine (University of Copenhagen/Columbia University, NY): Empathy, Solidarity, and Recognition
- 12.15–13.00 Joona Taipale (Center for Subjectivity Research, University of Copenhagen): The Melodic Presence of the Other: Phenomenological Remarks on Empathy and Mental States
- 13.00–14.30 Lunch Break
- 14.30–15.15 Thomas Szanto (University of Vienna): Stein on Shared Experiences and Collective Empathy
- 15.15–16.00 Emanuele Caminada (University of Cologne): Do We Need a Bearer for Common Experiences? Husserl, Stein, and Walther on Phenomenological and Group Mind
- 16.00–16.15 Coffee Break
- 16.15–17.00 Tim Burns (University College Dublin/Loyola Marymount University, LA): Stein's Contribution to the Debate over Intentionalism about Groups
- 17.00–17.45 Francesca De Vecchi (Vita-Salute San Raffaele University, Milan): Edith Stein's Social Ontology of the State, the Law, and of Social Acts
- 17.45–18.15 Round Table Closing Session

